

Screening can save lives and improve quality of life through early identification of a condition. It can also reduce the chance of developing a serious condition or its complications

WHAT IS BOWEL CANCER SCREENING?

Muslim men and women aged 56 years and over (or their relative, friend or carer on their behalf) are invited

JOIN US AND LEARN MORE AT

Your participation in the talks will help to inform how faith-placed events/talks can be rolled-out further to increase uptake of bowel cancer screening and other health promotion programmes, to address health inequalities in our community

@BritishIMA
@british.ima

NHS England and NHS Improvement

University of Hertfordshire